SHANGHAI'S SCHEMOZZLE

Press Opinions:

"The inimitable Sapajou captures in his cartoons the grave, the comic, the critical and the sympathetic aspects and spirit of this Shanghai war. His drawings are a commentary upon as well as relief to, the strife through which we are passing, and the collection which is here presented is among the best works he has done. . . . IN PARENTHESIS the daily light-hearted and jocular commentary on passing events . . . runs page by page with Sapajou's cartoons to make up a delightful volume. Mr. R. T. Peyton-Griffin sees and brings out the humourous with a whimsical touch all his own; he can be devastatingly cynical as well as broadly funny and gives us a 'slant' which helps to brighten the dullest day. . . ."—Shanghai Times.

"An attractively-bound book containing reprinted cartoons and IN PARENTHESIS columns since the opening of hostilities. . . . The book should prove interesting to many Shanghailanders who have gone through the present trouble and wish to add a touch of humour to their collection of war mementoes."—China Press.

. . . an excellent souvenir of the less grim side of unfortunate events through which Shanghai passes. "Shanghai's Schemozzle" shows no dead bodies, no burnt buildings and makes no attempt to impress one with the horror of war, but it does reflect one side of the conflict which will be worth remembering in later years. . . . "Shanghai's Schemozzle" is printed on fine paper and the whole makes a very beautiful appearance. . . . Many will agree that the way Sapajou and IN PARENTHESIS observe the war is the sanest way after all.—Shanghai Evening Post and Mercury.

TOWARDS BETTER BUSINESS
Trade and Commerce Reviving Again

Shanghai residents have had many proofs of the amazing resilience of this great city. It always comes back. Even the disasters which have fallen upon it recently have not caused panic or despair. Shanghai's merchants have stood firm and their stand has found appropriate response.

"Business as usual" is the ideal which Shanghai is determined to realize as nearly as possible. Commerce is vital to its existence. It means employment, purchasing power, the first steps towards prosperity and to this end every one of us has a duty and privilege as a purchaser to spend wisely, to encourage the extension of trade. Too much thrift and saving will defeat its own aim and delay the return of better days.

But purchasers must know where they can find what they need. Merchants and purchasers may meet each other in the columns of the most widely read newspaper in Shanghai. The pages of the "North-China Daily News" are an ideal platform from which to tell the shopper where his needs are to be found. At the office or in the home a glance at the "North-China" will provide quick and reliable information. Let buyer and seller get together through the medium of the "North-China Daily News." Telephone 11055 and our advertising representative will be glad to call.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SETTLEMENT DANGERS

Flights by Bomb-Carriers

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Noting that Domei announces strong representations being made to the Chinese Government about Chinese planes flying over the Settlement carrying bombs, how about somebody making a protest to the Japanese Government on the same subject?

At 2.15 this (Friday) afternoon four Japanese planes passed over the Settlement, crossing the river from Pootung toward the North Station. Did they carry bombs? Within three minutes the Settlement was "rocked" by explosions, I saw the four planes circling, and within a few minutes there were more explosions from that direction. May it therefore be reasonably inferred that they were carrying bombs when they passed over the Settlement from Pootung?

The same thing happened a couple of days ago—Japanese planes passing over the Settlement between the Custom House and the General Post Office. Were they carrying bombs? Presumably, since bombs were subsequently dropped, and I have not heard of any depot in mid-air where supplies can be picked up.

AERIAL BOMBING

Possibility of Restriction

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Although much has already been written to your columns for and against the bombing of non-combatants, there appears to me to be one point which has not been given due prominence.

Apologists for the bombings seem to derive satisfaction from the lack of "established international code on the conduct of aerial warfare," ignoring the stipulations of the Hague Convention of 1907 which prohibits "the attack or bombardment by any means whatever of towns, villages, habitations, or buildings which are not defended."

In the absence of any successful efforts later to exempt aerial warfare from the legal limitations of other means of attack or bombardment, the above stipulation must be considered applicable. This was brought home clearly in the British protest on the occasion of the attack on H.M.'s Ambassador, in which the sanctity of the safety of non-combatants away from the battlefield was repeatedly emphasized and which discounted even the necessity for a neutral flag.

It is one thing to attack or bombard Chapei, Hongkew, Tazang or Yangtzepoo, localities directly in line of the fighting, where the responsibility for the safety of non-combatants rests more with the defenders. It would be even different to attack lines directly behind the battlefield to cut off supplies and reinforcements, if reasonable care is taken to avoid civilians. No excuse, however, can be given in the case of distant cities, such as Nanking, Hankow, Soochow, Changshu, etc.

In some of the raids on Nanking the powerhouse and waterworks were openly declared as the objectives. What explanation can give such "buildings" a military significance? If water and power, hundreds of miles away from the front, can be regarded as military supplies, then every single thing in the world is a legitimate target, and every tottering crone, every babe in the arms, has a military value. That is perhaps why the Central Hospital in the Capital was subjected to a bombing which, according to foreign eye-witnesses, was carried out deliberately. If the morale of the civilian population may be aimed at, then any kind of frightfulness, of barbarity, of cowardice, should be permissible. Then, why a code at all?

I am afraid, I cannot agree with theory that Aggression and Aerial massacres are inseparable issues. Nor can I be convinced that Japanese militarists are devoid of human feelings and insenible to outside criticisms and pressure. And, there are other elements in Japan, too. Only, the voice of indignation must be raised to a sufficient pitch to pass the barrier of censorship and, if that is not enough, it must be backed with the threat of concrete measures to make that indignation not only heard but felt.

Had Japan been fighting with her back to the wall with her very existence dependent on her course of ruthless destruction, nothing would of course stop her. As it is no useful purpose has been served by the indiscriminate slaughter and no appreciable effect of the outcome of the present conflict will depend on its continuance, except perhaps to strengthen the hatred and solidity of the opponent. Japan has little to lose by confining the killing to the battlefield; she has, in fact, everything to gain by pursuing a more or less civilized warfare.

However doubtful the outcome of the coming international efforts to halt the Japanese aggression in China, until given a fair try, I for one refuse to be convinced of the impossibility of outlawing aerial bombardments of non-combatants and non-strategic localities and establishments by concerted and world-wide expression and action. Whatever might be accomplished in that direction will be welcomed by nations, now at peace; and the day may not be so very distant when civilians in Japan, too, will look back with gratitude on such efforts, when Japan will meet a worthier foe than now, with aerial massacres of non-combatants probably quite as one-sided as now.

DUMPING OF CARGO

Plea for Action

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Your correspondent MERCHANT writes to you on October 20, in reference to the cynical conduct of the shipping companies in dumping cargo haphazardly in any port in the Far East without regard to their obligations to the consignee and with the bland statement that their responsibility has ended. Moreover, they give no assurance that after the war is over the cargo will be brought forward without extra charge, although such a measure would cost them nothing.

Besides the interesting case of the ss. Hector cited by your correspondent, there have been other instances where the shipping companies have actually dumped Shanghai cargo at "enemy" ports, such as Dairen and Kobe. The Japanese authorities will not permit the shipping of cargo from Japanese to Chinese ports, so that the only way to get cargo from Dairen is to ship it to Hongkong and then back again to Shanghai. The shipping companies have kindly consented to make these arrangements for the merchants provided the latter agree to foot the bill, that is to pay for handling and storage charges at Dairen, freight to Hongkong, transhipment charges there, and freight from Hongkong to Shanghai.

One complains to the shipping companies concerned, but they can only blame the Conference. It is a magic word disposing of all argument. The British Chamber of Commerce seems to be inarticulate, and perhaps it might be a good idea if the merchants organize a conference of their own.

IDZUMO'S CAREER

A Correction

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Ex-Navy, in your issue of Oct. 21, apparently misunderstands the real significance of his facts and figures and, accordingly, presents them to your readers in a wrong light. The whole is therefore rather misleading.

As to heavy artillery, first. The Japanese eight-inch guns were in double turrets, the Russian—in barbettes; so that, whilst all the Japanese guns could be used in a broadside, only half the total number of their opponents' were available to return the fire with. Hence, the Japanese broadside comprised 16 and the Russian only 6 eight-inch guns.

Ex-Navy goes on to say that "Rossia and Gromoboy protected Rurick until her fate became apparent, and they left the place of action when there appeared two other Japanese cruisers." Such was certainly not the real meaning of what happened. On the contrary, Admiral Jessen, seeing that Rurick had managed to repair her steering geer and was returning to engage the enemy anon, decided to further assist his older and weaker ship by engaging the whole of Admiral Kamimuro's squadron (armed cruisers) with Rossia and Gromoboy and manœuvring them away from Rurick; which he then very successfully proceeded to do. He was quite unaware of the Rurick's already critical condition, or that she had had 192 killed and 239 wounded (the total Japanese losses in the battle off cape Urusan were 94 killed and 32 wounded). It was believed at the time that the ship, an armoured cruiser, would not have too much difficulty in shaking off some enemy light cruisers and safely reach Vladivostock.

Rossia, Gromoboy, and the four Japanese armoured cruisers were only some 30 miles away from the Rurick at the time she went down, when Admiral Kamimuro suddenly broke off the fight and retreated, notwithstanding his then quadruple superiority in heavy guns—due to the fact, it is believed, that his ships had no more ammunition left by that time.

MR. SOONG SPEAKS TO AMERICA

Isolation Possibility Said Now Impossible

CO-OPERATION FOR PEACE URGED ON HEARERS

Branding Japan a bluffer, "like all bullies," Mr. T. V. Soong, member of the Standing Committee of the National Economic Council, said in his broadcast to America yesterday that a sincere and frank co-operation by peace-loving nations would have the "bully" throw up his hands.

While admitting the constructive force of pacifism, Mr. Soong pointed out that "international brigandage is contagious," and would nullify all efforts of aloofness and isolation. Aspirations for peace are impotent unless backed by something more substantial, he said.

Mr. Soong said:—

"How does the war between China and Japan affect America, must be the spoken or unspoken thought of millions and millions of Americans to-day. Affect you it does. The mere fact that I am speaking in China, and that you in California, Ohio, New York and Tennessee are listening-in, shows that the splendid isolation that was once England's, and that many of you now fancy to be America's, is no more. Whether you like it or not, what troubles us becomes your problem as well. Having been a guest at many of your homes when I was a student in your country years ago, I am glad of this opportunity to venture to tell you my opinion of how war in the Fast East may influence your lives.

"China, like America, was and is a nation of pacifists. We worship peace. We abhor war. We have no desire for conquest. We do not covet our neighbour's goods. All we ask is to be left alone to work out the pattern of our lives. Being pacifists ourselves we expect other nations to leave us at peace. But the old adage that it takes two to make a fight is untrue. It takes two to keep the peace.

"Do you remember the days of your childhood when you were playing at building houses out of wooden blocks; how pains-takingly you were placing columns over cubes, and arches over columns, how slowly the house beautiful was emerging, but just at that moment a little bully arrived and by a single kick shattered the fabric of your dreams?

Ceaseless Efforts

"The history of my people for the last quarter of a century has been the story of ceaseless efforts to make of ourselves a modern democracy. We have been absorbed in the task of spiritual and material reconstruction. We were promoting mass education and public health, building our lines of communication and developing our farms, factories and mines, but again and again no sooner did we make some headway than along came Japan, the racketeer nation, public enemy No. 1, and destroyed the fruits of our labour.

"What are we doing to help ourselves? From being regarded as the worst example of spineless pacifism we are fighting with our backs to the wall with the fury of the man fighting for his life and liberty. Right here in Shanghai with all the odds of modern mechanized weapons against us with the Japanese warships, tanks, heavy artillery and aeroplanes, bombing, shelling and machine-gunning both soldiers and non-combatant women and children alike, we are throwing the flower of our youth into the furnace in an attempt to stem the invaders.

Constructive Pacifism

"What, you ask me, should be the role of peace-loving America? When a gunman shoots up your home town, what do you do? Do you put up your shutters and simply pray that the outlaw does not attack you next? No. Your pacifism is more constructive. You do not want to break the peace yourself, but if a gunman shoots your neighbour, you organize a posse and go after him. For you know that to-day it is your neighbour, to-morrow it may be you.

"Let me recall to you a little bit of history. There were once nations so great and mighty as to be held above any danger of being attacked. When a neighbouring country was invaded in violation of all treaties and covenants to which those nations were partners, they conveniently looked aside because they were preoccupied with economic difficulties. And when their attention was called to the transgression which by joint action at that time could have been stopped with ease, they strove to salve their conscience by listening to the plea that the situation in the Far East is somehow different, that there may be one international law for the West and another for the East. Now because of that attitude the law of nations has been widely flouted, the world has been steadily drifting into chaos, and nations are spending colossal sums on rearmament. I know what I am talking about because I was one of those holding the reins of government in China when the Manchurian crisis broke out in 1931, and the Secretary of State of your country, Mr. Stimson, courageously tried to organize effective measures against the aggressor nation. International brigandage is contagious. Do not believe that by adopting an attitude of aloofness and by relying on your so-called isolation you will not be scorched by the same fire.

"The abstract ideal of peace constantly repeated is hardly sufficient to stop this danger. Like most of you I happen to be a "movie fan." Perhaps you will recall the film "Svengali" where John Barrymore played Svengali to mesmerize his Trilby. Japan is no weak defenceless Trilby who could be mesmerized by muttering "Svengali, Svengali, Svengali!" Your aspirations for peace are impotent unless backed by something more substantial.

Danger to America

"When I talked of the danger that confronts America if Japan succeeds in conquering China, you may think I am talking of the distant future. But it is the immediate present too that I have in mind.

"Like China you too were a child at play, piling block after block of your dream house when along came the little bully and destroyed your creation also. Here you are trying to lift yourselves out of the economic depression, creating new organizations, making laws, experimenting and ceaselessly striving to improve your situation. You have made substantial progress, your success is in sight, your people are better fed, better housed, and better clothed when along comes the bully, Japan, and by raising the spectre of a world war threatens to tumble your house of recovery into disorder. Your stock markets have declined, the prices of your produce have gone down, you are even talking of seven-cent cotton and seventy-cent wheat, you are in danger of falling back into the depression by the fear of another world war. The vast internal market of your great country and the splendid isolation of your shores have not given you immunity from the baneful effects of the Japanese war on China.

Japan's Bluff

"We have no right and we do not ask you to go to war to stop the Japanese menace. The forces of constructive pacifism are, however, immeasurably greater than those of the forces of violence if you only realize it. Japan, like all bullies, is a bluffer. Weak China has already pricked Japan's balloon of invincibility. Japan does not dare, she cannot make war against a combination of peace-loving nations. By frank and sincere co-operation with the nations that actively desire peace and by the determination to employ economic boycott against the aggressor nation, you could dictate peace. Your posse needs only to show a united front and the bully will throw up his hands. And by so doing you will save the world and yourselves from the anarchy that threatens to engulf modern civilization.

Sixty Years Ago

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS," OF OCTOBER 23, 1877

The weather was perfect yesterday for the S.R.C. Autumn Regatta, a warm sun tempered by a fresh northerly breeze and a large number of spectators were, as usual, tempted to make holiday on the banks of the Soochow Creek. Mr. Miller's garden was again placed at the disposal of the ladies, the members of the S.R.C. and their friends, to view the races; and his hospitality was largely availed of. The new boat-house the Mound, and other points of vantage were also thronged with spectators, to say nothing of the free & lances who chose to wander independently along the banks, or selected some special grave mound "far from the madding crowd." The state of the tide did not permit the first race to be rowed till nearly an hour after the advertised time, and it was fully 2.30 before the flag fell to the start for the International Eights. This is, we believe, ascribed partly to an unusually high tide; but inasmuch as, even in China, the tide usually makes later day after day, we imagine spectators will be quite safe in setting out a little later than the advertised time, to-day. It is hardly possible that the tide should serve exactly at the same hour on two successive days. The racing yesterday was less exciting on the whole than we have known it on former occassions. The men-o-war's boat race was a close one, and is the more remarkable as the Juno's cutter is a six-oared boat, but the crew chose to pull with four rather than give the time allowance. The International was an easy win for the English, who took a strong lead after the first half-mile, and came in pulling within themselves. The betting, which started some weeks ago at 3 and 2 to 1 on the Scottish, had become even by the time of the start the partisans of each crew being guided more by national partisanship than by any belief in intrinsic superiority in their choice. Some few, however, were found willing to hazard 2 to 1 on the English crew almost at the last moment and some money was placed at these odds. The English crew were first afloat, and paddled in good style to the starting-place, the evenness of their stroke being commented on favourably. The Scottish crew followed shortly afterwards, but it was apparent they did not sit their boat so trim as their opponents, neither was their stroke so even. Their boat, too, was a little down by the stern, which in these craft was not an advantage. The race, however, was a game one throughout, the time 8 min. 37 sec., comparing favourably with that of last year, when it was 8 min. 50½ sec. Now that this race has come to be regarded as the event of the meeting, it may be interesting to give here a list of the victorious crews since the race has been rowed between English and Scottish crews only. In 1870, an English and American crew competed, the former being the winners:

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

WAR IN SHANGHAI

Severe fighting has been resumed as the result of the offensive by the Chinese forces to relieve their position round Tazang. The triangle roughly formed by the Woosung Creek, the Shanghai-Nanking Railway as far as Nanziang and the Shanghai-Woosung Railway to its crossing of the Creek may be described as the area mainly affected by these operations, the apex formed by the junction of the two railway lines resting on North Station and the Creek as the base running in a north-easterly direction from Nanziang to the Whangpoo. The present fighting may be regarded as the beginning of a new phase in the campaign round Shanghai. The Japanese have greatly developed their pressure on the Chinese positions with the apparent object of rendering North Station and the Kiangwan area untenable. The Japanese landings were effected toward the end of August at Woosung, Liuho and Lankankow on the right bank of the Yangtze. Soon after the beginning of September, despite heroic Chinese resistance, Paoshan fell into Japanese hands. This gave the invaders a firmer foothold and they extended their advance from Liuho and Lankankow with the result that, having made a further landing in Yangtszepoo on the left bank of the Whangpoo, they were able to force a Chinese retirement in the middle of September. Round the Civic Centre fierce fighting raged but eventually that point was captured and the Chinese forces withdrew to a line stretching from Lotien through Liuhang, then sharply eastward to Kiangwan, thence due south to the North Station. The next phase involved the Japanese in a move southward from Liuho against Lotien in conjunction with the advance of their troops from Woosung and Yangtszepoo. Lotien was strongly defended but by the beginning of October the Chinese announced their further withdrawal from the Lotien-Liuhang line but their continuance in position at Kiangwan. The new line ran through Kwangfu to Tazang then out to the Kiangwan salient and southward to North Station.

Thus the Japanese forces keeping a strong frontal pressure from Yangtszepoo on the Kiangwan-Chapei line are continuing to swing their right in a southerly direction with the apparent object of taking Tazang and so imperilling the Chinese forces posted in the Chapei area. In advancing from the north the Japanese crossed the Woosung Creek at Kaungkazah and have now occupied Mojauzah which brings them within five miles of the border of the International Settlement's Western District. The Chinese offensive is assumed to be designed to relieve this pressure either with the object of continuing to hold on to the Chapei and Kiangwan areas or in order to facilitate a withdrawal which, unless other more important considerations prevail, appears to be advisable in the light of the dangerous development of the Japanese right wing movement. If the Japanese were able to take Tazang which lies due west of Kiangwan, their command of the narrow corridor whereby the Chinese forces can retire to the Kiating-Nanziang-Chenju line will expose their opponents to severe punishment and may easily involve actual encirclement of the large body of defenders in a now hardly pressed salient. In the last few days the Administration Building at North Station has been the object of strong Japanese attacks. It has heavily suffered. That indicates the ordeal through which the Chinese defence of that part of their line is now going. Much depends, of course, on the immediate result of the offensive which began on the night of Oct. 21. It will be interesting to observe the movements accruing therefrom on either side during the next few days. They will obviously show whether the next phase of the fighting here will be marked by a Chinese withdrawal or whether an intensification of the struggle in Kiangwan and Chapei is to be expected.

According to official reports the Chinese offensive radiated from Kwangfu and resulted in the gaining of ground between Kwangfu and Liuho. It seems to have been designed to check a Japanese advance which had threatened Kwangfu and also had developed southward toward Tazang. The conclusion is that the present activities of both sides are concentrated on securing definite results in the neighbourhood of Tazang, the fate of which must have an important bearing on immediate developments north of Shanghai. Despite a stubborn and heroic resistance the Japanese forces appear to have gradually established themselves in a position which cannot be favourable to continued Chinese retention of the Chapei area, strongly fortified though it be. Shanghailanders need no instruction on the severity of the fighting. Reverberations of the conflict have emphatically revealed the weight of munitions pressed into service by both sides during its course. The sickening noise of thudding explosions has told its tale and disturbed the sleep of all but the most inveterate abjurers of insomnia. It will be taken for granted that the Japanese cannot afford to leave undone anything which may ensure the success of their present movement. The delay in taking the initiative here, followed by further delay in dislodging the Chinese defenders who have withstood an appalling onslaught by superior artillery and have suffered casualties calculated to shake the morale of more seasoned troops, may be said to have whetted Japanese anxiety for concrete results. Whether that anxiety will be placated the events of the next few days perhaps will tell. Judging from previous results, it is possible that the Chinese Command may again deprive its enemy of the sweeter fruits of success by one of those strategic retirements which apparently Chinese units are most effective in unexpectedly staging.

UNSATISFACTORY RESULTS

The result of the latest air-raid over Shanghai should reinforce Mr. Nelson Johnson's protest to the Government at Nanking. In flying over the International Settlement at night Chinese airmen are at a great disadvantage if accuracy in the search for a target be desired. So far much damage has been done to the property of Chinese citizens and the military value of these raids cannot be said to be impressive, whereas in other adventures, notably in the defence of Nanking, Chinese aeroplanes have proved their worth. Mr. Johnson's plea is deserving of careful consideration by the Chinese authorities for it certainly is not their desire that their own countrymen should suffer as the result of the operations of the Air Force. The prompt expressions of horror which were evoked by the early tragedies of Aug. 14 were followed it was understood by the issue of precise instructions for avoiding the risk of flying over the Settlement. To this point Mr. Johnson has now rightly drawn attention. Japanese airmen are also involved, for their flights over the Settlement can still be noted. Although they have so far been comparatively free of criticism on account of bombs dropped within Settlement limits—yesterday unhappily provided another exception—the risks involved by activities against which diplomatic protests have been made cannot be overlooked.

THIRTY YEARS' SERVICE

After thirty years in the service of the Shanghai Municipal Police Superintendent T. McKenna retires to well-earned leisure in the homeland. In recent months Mr. McKenna has been guide, philosopher and friend to motorists, rickshaws, pedestrians and other obstructors of the traffic in the Settlement's streets and he has managed by sheer grasp of the intricacies of the problem and a more than ordinary endowment with commonsense and humour to displease so negligible a section of the community as to make his friends wonder if he has not studied witchcraft in addition to maintaining proficiency in his native blarney. Seriously, however, Mr. McKenna leaves Shanghai with a fine record of police work to his credit. He has also been a splendid leader in local amateur sport. For ten years he served in the old Mixed Court. In 1918 he acquired accelerated promotion for a particularly gallant feat in that with a sub-inspector and two police constables he arrested three armed robbers in the Hongkew area. In fact to the tributes which have been paid to him in the last few days there is little to add except a firm underlining. The Council is losing an officer who has in many ways typified all that is best in its police service and the Settlement will not forget him.

A GREAT JOCKEY

Personality as well as horsemanship receives recognition in the salute of Steve Donoghue as he retires from the saddle to the responsibilities of training. Born at Warrington 53 years ago, Donoghue has experienced the vicissitudes of his profession in that, after reigning for some time as the champion—he tied with Elliott in 1923 two years before Gordon Richards' régime began—he had financial disappointments which he overcame only by sheer grit and the help of friendships thoroughly deserved. As a rider at Epsom he has had few equals and six Derby wins testify to his eminence there. His first success in the great race was in the substitute event at Newmarket in 1915, on Pommern. He did the "hat-trick" with Humorist, Captain Cuttle and Papyrus in 1921-23. His last winning mount was Manna in 1925. He had hopes of adding a seventh this year in riding Sir Victor Sassoon's Renardo but it was not to be. Donoghue did not win the Derby at the first attempt, for in 1910 he brought the 33-1 chance Charles O'Malley into third place two lengths behind Greenback whom the winner Lemberg beat by a neck. In the following year he again rode the third—but a bad one—in Royal Tender when Sunstar won. Donoghue belongs to the great traditions of his profession and his admirers will hope that in his new activity he will meet with the success which his experience and determination should command. It may be recalled that he made an effective appearance in his own character on the screen in the colour-cinema "Wings of the Morning".

TEGART OF BENGAL

The Colonial Office has followed the example of Scotland Yard and drawn on the Indian Police to help it in its present dilemma in Palestine. Sir Charles Tegart is probably the most famous of Indian Police Officers of the recent past. He has been admitted to the select gallery in which are installed the memories of Colonel Warburton of Kapurthala, Beaty of Quetta, Handyside of the Frontier, Sir Lionel Tomkins of the Punjab and Sir Charles Cleveland of Simla. During his long service as head of the Calcutta Police Sir Charles Tegart was an implacable and imperturbable enemy of anarchical terrorists. His life was the constant object of attack from as formidable a band of conspirators as ever troubled the peace of an administration. On one occasion a Ditcher who was taken for him was shot dead in Dalhousie Square—an outrage which Tegart specially resented and for which he duly brought the criminals to book. Like so many successful policemen Sir Charles is an Irishman, born in Dunboyne, County Meath and educated at that famous institution, the Portora Royal School at Enniskillen, and at Trinity College Dublin of which university he is now an honorary LL.D. On retirement from India after thirty years' service Sir Charles was accorded what for a policeman was an unusual distinction in being appointed to membership of the Secretary of State's Council. His five years' tenure of that post expired in December last year, so he is perfectly free to undertake the new professional adventure in Palestine.

And Then Again

"TIME" perpetrates the following:—

Oh yeah! Only a little over a month ago the absence of censorship led to 62 words being excised from one message.

Something We Want to Know

THE representative of a local American brokerage firm commenting on the New York Stock Exchange collapse, has delivered himself of the following:—

The market isn't functioning as a market any more, as there is no buying—only selling."

Now, what we want to know is how can there be no buying if people are selling?

The Liars!

FROM a Japanese paper:

According to a Hongkong telegram to the Asahi, it has been revealed that three nationals of a certain Power were aboard a Chinese plane which was shot down by a Japanese plane during the air raid on Canton on Wednesday. Two of them were killed outright, while the other is lying in a critical condition. The Canton authorities, the message says, who are greatly embarrassed by the revelation, are trying to mislead the world by giving out false information to the effect that the machine in question was a Japanese one.

The taradiddling in this "incident" is getting more complicated.

Hostile English

CHINESE is easy to learn if you have a system. So is English: all you have to do is to classify your events under a few standard phrases. Thus:

Fierce fighting.—Any attack where a lot of noise is made.

Driven off.—Any retreat.

Details are not received.—Any situation whereon you have no dope.

The building was gutted.—Any fire even if the structure had none of those things and wasn't burned out anyway.

Withering fire.—Any machine gun performance.

Terrific hail.—Any flight of bullets.

Tension.—Anything that starts rumourmongers going.

According to information reaching here.—Any rumour.

* * *

Tripe!

THE Hongkong "Daily Press," which every day seems to work itself into a frentically high temperature, recently got the following off its chest:—

With all their boasting the Japanese have reduced their lavishly publicised first-class nation to the level of a third-rater. All the leather-lunged pronouncements by Konoye, Hirota and Party have proved shallow as a drained dam. The outpourings by Hirota particularly can conveniently be classified in that branch of deceitfulness known as clumsy lying, and that is indeed remarkable in the case of such an adept so carefully trained in a country where lying is one of the fine arts—if not actually regarded as one of the finest!

As a valuable contribution to the sober discussion of China's present troubles, this might do very well boiled with onions.

CONFLICTING CLAIMS FOLLOW COUNTER-OFFENSIVE

Chinese Report 1,000 Metres Advance from Kwangfu: Japanese Retort Kwangfu Held

BITTER FIGHT CONTINUES ALONG FRONTS

AS completely conflicting as it was possible to be were the communiques issued by the Chinese and Japanese yesterday following the Chinese counter-offensive launched north of Shanghai on Thursday night. Chinese claimed a considerable victory, the recapture of several villages and an advance of more than 1,000 metres east of Kwangfu. Japanese statements, however, while not denying the Chinese claims, were to the effect that, following the Japanese capture of Kwangfu on Thursday afternoon, and after repelling Chinese attacks for three hours that night, they yesterday took the village of Tingchiachiao, north of Kwangfu, on the Yangching Creek, about 2½ kilometres southwest of Liuhang.

Closer to Shanghai, an even greater activity on the part of the Japanese air units kept the city on edge through the day. Even Pootung, which has not seen intensive bombing for some time, was visited by many flights of big bombers, usually in threes, with smaller, very fast planes and the Idzumo's seaplane adding to the troubles of those on the ground opposite The Bund.

Part of the Japanese attack on Pootung consisted of severe machine-gunning of a position near the boom by two fast biplanes, which circled round and round, constantly diving and turning their guns on a position which was hidden from the view of observers on The Bund by the godowns on the Pootung foreshore.

The two machines showed a remarkable speed and swooped down within a hundred or so feet of the ground but apparently received no opposition. The planes were two of the fastest of the Japanese units seen in Shanghai and contrasted vividly with the slower seaplane from the Idzumo.

Over Chapei as many as nine huge bombers in the air at once kept up a tremendous aerial bombardment from close to Shanghai farther out along the lines to Tazang.

That embattled zone, Tazang, obviously continuing to be the objective of the Japanese forces, was ringed by heavy artillery fire, that to the west and east of it, as seen from the Settlement, being fierce enough during the bright daylight to be seen from the roofs of the city's tall buildings. The barrage did not falter when night fell, and the heavy thunder of the big guns was as clearly audible early this morning as the night before.

The Chinese counter-offensive, begun on Thursday, was concentrated in two places, Chapei, and the Kwangfu-Tazang sector. In the former, the Chinese claimed an advance from the Eight Character Bridge to the Rokusan Gardens by 9.30 p.m.

The Chinese reported, concerning the Kwangfu sector as far as the Wentsaopang, that substantial gains were made. From Kwangfu an advance against the Japanese, who had succeeded on Thursday afternoon in reaching the town, was reported to have routed the Japanese and forced them eastward for over 1,000 metres, toward Liuhang.

With the Japanese still entrenched in a salient at Kechiapailou, information from Chinese headquarters in the afternoon yesterday reported the capture of an important village to the north.

With the exception of the Kechiapailou salient, which the Japanese were stubbornly holding, their forces along the Fengtsuntang Creek and in Hsinluche were driven back, the Chinese claimed.

On the Liuho front, Chinese troops were also said to have joined the attack and a gain in several places of from one to two kilometres was claimed by the Chinese spokesman. Skirmishes were reported at Kiaohang, Kiangwan and Chapei.

Different Japanese Reports

Japanese military and naval authorities last night claimed that the furious attacks of the Chinese in the Lotien and Chapei sectors on Thursday night were repulsed after three hours fighting. The Chinese were forced to retire, the Japanese said, leaving behind hundreds of dead and wounded.

In the Yangching Creek area, near Kwangfu, three Japanese detachments were attacked by three separate Chinese columns. After the battle there, the Japanese claim to have counted about 500 bodies of Chinese officers and men. A large number of Chinese soldiers were stated to have surrendered and to have given their units as the 44th, 51st, and 60th Divisions.

A Chinese attack on the Japanese in North Szechuen Road, helped by their artillery, was also repulsed, the communique from the Third Fleet announced. The engagement, it was further stated, was extremely bitter, with heavy Chinese losses.

A bombardment by Japan's warships of Chinese artillery and machine-gun positions in Pootung was claimed to have been entirely successful, ending with the Chinese emplacements destroyed.

Japanese Break Chinese Ex-Red Stand in Shansi

Mt. Hsinkou Stronghold Falls to Leave Taiyuanfu Open

SHANTUNG AREA FLOODED BY DEFENDERS

Peiping, Oct. 22.

After fierce hand-to-hand fighting, Japanese troops broke Chinese resistance in the Hsinkou mountains in Shansi, says a Japanese report from Yuanping. The Japanese southward drive to Taiyuanfu, held up here by the Chinese Communist forces for more than two weeks, is now expected to speed up, it states. The Japanese troops, it adds, advancing against machine-gun and rifle fire as well as a barrage of hand grenades, routed the Chinese from the last trenches at the point of a bayonet.

A Japanese armoured train on the Tientsin-Pukow Railway, reaching a point 1,000 metres north of Yucheng, Shantung, exchanged fire to-day with Chinese troops entrenched near the railway station, says a Japanese report from Tehchow. The train then withdrew across the Tuhai River to its base.

To impede the Japanese advance the Chinese destroyed the bank of the Tuhai river, flooding the countryside between Changchuang and Yucheng.—Reuter.

Chinese Advance Claimed

Nanking, Oct. 22.

Newly reinforced, Chinese forces on the Tsinpu front are preparing a large-scale counter-offensive, says a report from Tsinan to-day. Japanese troops north of Yucheng, south of Pingyuan, are now completely surrounded. Part of the railway track in Tungkwang was destroyed by Chinese mobile units.—Central News.

Linghsien Taken

Tehchow, Oct. 22.

Linghsien, about 14 miles north of the Yellow River, was taken by the Akashiba detachment which entered the walled town after a brief engagement this morning, says a Japanese military report. Chinese railway cars loaded with military supplies were captured at the Chang River, near the Hopei-Honan border, the Japanese also claimed.—Domei.

Mongols Harry Chinese

Kweisui, Oct. 22.

Thousands of mounted, well-equipped Mongol soldiers were today pursuing Chinese troops retreating across deep snow into Ninghsia and Shensi. One Mongol drive is westward towards Wuyuan, 160 km. north-west of here. Another drive is southward upon Chinese troops crossing the upper reaches of the Yellow River.—Domei.

GEN. HAN RENEWS HIS PLEDGE

Understanding With Japanese Refuted

Tsinanfu, Oct. 22.

Gen. Han Fu-chu, Governor of Shantung, renewed his pledge of loyalty to the Central Government in a statement issued to the press today.

The main object of his statement, he says, is to refute the many rumours suggesting that the failure of the Japanese to bomb Tsinan, the capital of Shantung, is due to an understanding between the Japanese and himself.

"The Japanese enemy," General Han declares, "conjures up tricks to divide us and then to destroy us, and we have already administered to the invaders an unexpected surprise and shock.

"The Japanese are at their wits' end and are deliberately spreading suspicions to carry out their iniquitous plans. However, to the intelligent such crude stratagems are only ridiculous.

"As a military man, it is my duty to help to protect the country, and now as the preservation or destruction of the nation hangs in the balance, I pledge my loyalty to the Central Government and to the Generalissimo. I shall resist to the bitter end.

"The facts speak for themselves," Gen. Han adds. "The Central Government already has an all-inclusive plan of military campaigns which I cannot disclose. I trust that our people will adopt a broad view and not entertain erroneous ideas. To sum up, facts speak louder than words, and rumours carry within themselves their own destruction."—Reuter.

ROBBERS ENTER LAUNDRY IN PEKING ROAD

Three men, armed with imitation pistols, broke into 583 Peking Road, the premises of the Shanghai Laundry, at 6.20 a.m. yesterday, intimidating the inmates. After the alarm had been raised the robbers made off, one subsequently being arrested.

Raiders Visit Shanghai and Woosung Area

Raiding Shanghai four times between 6 p.m. yesterday and 12.15 a.m. to-day, and continuing as far as the Woosung area, the Chinese air force did not neglect this zone of hostilities last night. The first, second and fourth raids were spectacular for Shanghai, the Japanese warships opening considerable fire on each occasion. The third attracted the attention of land anti-aircraft batteries in the far Yangtszepoo district. Many bombs were reported to have been dropped and, at 11 p.m., the Fire Brigade answered a call from their Yangtszepoo Station to a fire which had broken out in houses near the corner of Ward and Meichow Roads. This was about forty minutes after the second raid.

Over Woosung, the raiders apparently dropped bombs of much greater size than they have anywhere near Shanghai since the first days of the hostilities, the brilliant flashes lighting the distant sky, and the crashing sound following slowly to observers in the city. They were greeted by an unusually brilliant anti-aircraft barrage. What damage they did could not be ascertained this morning.

Japan Chary of Attending Talks Over China Issue

Opinion Hardens Against Brussels Conference

CABINET UNDECIDED

"Further Complications" Are Feared

Tokyo, Oct. 21.

The Meirukai Association of retired officials of the civil and fighting services held an emergency meeting to-day and adopted a resolution opposing Japan's participation in the Nine-Power Conference.

The resolution, which has been handed to the Foreign Minister, Mr. Koki Hirota, says Japan's action in China was taken "entirely in self-defence against Chinese provocation and, therefore, does not violate the provisions of the Nine-Power Treaty or the Kellogg Pact."

It points out that "China has failed to observe the provisions of the Nine-Power Treaty, which stipulates a reduction of her army, but instead has expanded her armament and adopted a policy of co-operating with Communists, thus rendering the application of the Treaty impossible."

The resolution adds that the intervention of a third party will only complicate the situation.—Reuter.

Tokyo Refusal Forshadowed

Tokyo, Oct. 22.

A reply, declining the Belgian Government's invitation to attend the Nine-Power Conference, will be submitted to the Cabinet for approval on Oct. 26, whereafter it will be sent to Brussels, the "Asahi," a leading journal, said to-day. The Foreign Office will also issue a statement clarifying Japan's stand, Domei learned from authoritative sources. If the Government decides to accept the Belgian invitation, Imperial sanction will have to be obtained. Besides no delegate could reach Brussels in time for the conference, set to open on Oct. 30.

Chinese Delegates Chosen

Nanking, Oct. 22.

Three Chinese delegates to the Brussels conference of the Nine-Power Treaty were announced to-day by the National Government. They are Dr. Wellington Koo, Ambassador to France; Mr. Quo Tai-chi, Ambassador to the Court of St. James, and Dr. Chien Tai, Ambassador to Belgium.—Central News.

The "Asahi" which had previously advocated conditional participation in the conference, said editorially today that it was disappointed over the terms of the invitation, "in its failure to dispel the general misgiving that the conference is being convoked in accordance with the resolution of the League of Nations, which condemned Japan's action in China; and failure to respect or consider Japan's policy that the Sino-Japanese question be settled directly between the two nations concerned, without the intervention of a third party."

If Japan accepts, the "Asahi" declared, she will play "into China's hands and will repeat the bitter experience of the triple intervention following the Sino-Japanese war of 1894-95. Moreover, the situation in the Far East will be further complicated, with the interests of various Powers injected into the picture."—Domei.

The Note, Domei learned authoritatively was closely scrutinized by high Gaimusho officials. The Cabinet's final attitude is generally expected to be made at its meeting on Oct. 26.

CHINESE CUSTOMS CONTINUING

Mr. Eden Unaware Of Any Interruption

London, Oct. 21.

The importance of preserving the Chinese Customs administration was fully realized by the British Government, which had emphasized this in communications to the Chinese and Japanese Governments, declared Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary, in reply to a question in the House of Commons to-day.

As far as he was aware, he added, the Chinese Customs continued to function.

It was too early, Mr. Eden said, to make a detailed statement regarding the position of British trade in China, but according to present indications such trade in China proper in September would show a heavy decline compared with the previous month.—Reuter.

HONGKONG JUNK INQUIRY ENDS HEARINGS

Incendiary Bullet Extracted from Wounded Survivor

Hongkong, Oct. 22.

The Commission of Inquiry into alleged sinking of twelve fishing junks on September 22 by Japanese warcraft, concluded its findings today.

Included in the final evidence was the statement by Police Inspector Hopkins, ballistic expert, that a bullet extracted from one of the victims was of the type known as incendiary. The Commission's report is expected in a few days.—Reuter.

Gaimusho Assertion

Tokyo, Oct. 22.

Evidence by Chinese fishermen at the Hongkong inquiry was ridiculed to-day by a Gaimusho spokesman. Chinese witnesses' asserted that the submarine which attacked the junks bore the numeral "7," but the submarine thus numbered was only recently built at the Yokosuka naval dockyards where it is still lying. Further, the colour of Japanese submarines is not light grey, as alleged. The spokesman also recalled that the captain and the chief officer of the German liner Scharnhorst, which picked up ten of the witnesses, categorically denied having seen the alleged attack by a submarine on Chinese junks. The report now in circulation, he pointed out is nevertheless based by the Chinese on a statement allegedly made by these two German officers.—Domei.

MORE DESTRUCTION BY JAPANESE BOMBS

Japanese bombs did more damage in Shanghai yesterday. Upper picture shows the smoke from a row of shops in Boundary Road well behind the Embankment Building in foreground. BRITAIN MUST SEEK EARLY END TO CARNAGE IN CHINA

Prime Minister Urges Commons To Avoid Extension Of Conflict: Open Mind on Brussels Talks

London, Oct. 21.

"DO not let us allow our minds to be deflected by hypothetical things that have not arisen, but let us put all our energy and co-operation into the task of saving lives which are daily being sacrificed in the warfare in China," declared the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, in winding up a debate on foreign affairs before a packed House of Commons to-day.

Following the Prime Minister's speech, the House carried, by 204 votes to 111, the Government motion for adjournment. The Labour Party had earlier decided to vote against the motion as a protest against the foreign policy of the Government in regard to Spain and Tokyo.

Among those listening to the speeches from the Distinguished Strangers Gallery were the Ambassadors of Russia, Belgium, Argentine, Spain and China.

Mr. Chamberlain, who spoke immediately after Mr. C. R. Attlee, Leader of the Labour Opposition, and Sir Archibald Sinclair, the Liberal Leader, had voiced their views, emphasized that the object of the Brussels Conference was to try to restore peace in the Far East.

He deprecated Mr. Attlee's suggestion that they should say what they would do if they found it impossible to make peace by peaceful methods. It was a mistake to go to the conference talking of economic sanctions and pressure by force.

"We go there," the Prime Minister declared, "to make peace, not to extend the conflict, and the first thing we have to do is to see what means, by concerted effort, can be devised to bring about a peaceful solution of the problem."

In initiating the debate, Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary, warmly welcomed the calling of the Nine-Power Conference.

"We warmly welcome the summoning of the Nine-Power Conference," declared Mr. Eden after he had recounted the efforts of the British Government to promote a settlement, "because in our view a meeting of the Powers principally concerned in the capital of one of the signatories of the Nine-Power Treaty, is the best hope of finding a means to put an end to this unhappy conflict.

"The paramount desire of everyone must be to see ended the slaughter, suffering and misery, of which we are witnesses, in China to-day. If the Nine-Power Conference could achieve this—in our view it offers the best chance—it will have rendered the greatest possible service."

Labour View of Issue

Mr. C. R. Attlee, the Leader of the Labour Opposition, who followed Mr. Eden, asked if the Nine-Power Treaty was going to be the basis of the Conference, or was there going to be another kind of Hoare-Laval deal.

The Foreign Secretary's speech, he said, had emphasized all the time that the only thing which affected the British Government were the interests of British Imperialism.

The Labour Party, Mr. Attlee continued, stood for the rule of law and the development of a commonwealth of nations, while the Government was back in the pre-war days and considered only and narrowly what it considered to be the interests of this country. The Government had neglected a true way of preserving peace, which was through the League of Nations.

The Government's policy, the Labour Leader declared, seemed to be whether it could get the aggressor to take half a loaf instead of the whole loaf.

Two Undertakings Asked

He asked the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, whether he would undertake not to do anything incompatible with the Nine-Power Treaty at the Conference.

He asked also whether, if China accepted an armistice and Japan refused, the Government would propose an international embargo on Japan.

It was not enough for the League to meet and condemn the aggressor, but practical steps should be taken.

CANTON-KOWLOON RL AGAIN BOMBED

Communications Disrupted: Express Held Up

Hongkong, Oct. 22.

The Canton-Kowloon Railway was again severely damaged by bombers to-day, the track being torn up at Km. 101, while the embankment was struck at Km. 103 and tons of earth cascaded onto the track.

The morning express from Canton is now held up near here but no news is available if passengers suffered injury or if the train was damaged. Communications between Hongkong and Canton, including the telephone, have again been disrupted.—Reuter.

Pukow Again Raided

Nanking, Oct. 22.

Japanese planes raided Pukow and also the aerodrome outside Kwanghuamen this afternoon. They flew at a great height and far from the city. Only one Japanese machine, probably a pusuit 'plane circled for a brief time above the northern section of the city. The alarm was sounded at 3.20 p.m. and the "all-clear" at 4.15 p.m.

Thirteen Japanese planes were observed en route to Nanking, five of which bombed the Wusih Railway station while the other six heavy bombers and two pursuit machines, raided the aerodrome in two groups. Smaller bombs than previously were used.—Reuter.

Tsinpu Ferry Wharf Damaged

Nanking, Oct. 22.

The Tsinpu train ferry wharf at Pukow, an objective of Japanese bombers yesterday afternoon, was badly damaged, a later check revealed. Necessary repairs will take much time.—Central News.

PANAMA REGISTRATION OF CHINESE SHIPS STOPPED

Panama, Oct. 21.

Following the closing of the China Sea to Chinese-owned vessels by the Japanese Navy, Panama is temporarily suspending the registration of Chinese vessels under the Panamanian flag to avoid diplomatic complications in the Orient. Suspension will continue until other Powers involved decide upon joint action.—Reuter.

Mediterranean Routes Must Be Kept Free to All

Britain's Achievements Told Commons

PIRACY NOW ENDED

Italo-German Compromise On Spain Appreciated

London, Oct. 21.

"There will be no indifference on the part of the Government where it is clear that vital British interests are threatened," declared Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary, in referring to the Mediterranean situation during a debate on foreign affairs in the House of Commons, which reassembled for the first time to-day after the summer recess.

British rearmament, he said, bore in it neither ouvert nor latent strains of revenge, either in the Mediterranean or anywhere else. Such sentiments were wholly alien to the British character, and even were the Government to harbour them which it does not the British people would never be willing to give effect to them.

"Our position in the Mediterranean," Mr. Eden added, "is simply this. We mean to maintain the right of way on this main arterial road. We are justified in expecting that such a right of way should be unchallenged. We have never asked, and we do not ask to-day, that the right should be exclusive."

Non-Intervention Success

Mr. Eden then expressed the British Government's sincere appreciation of the concessions made by the Italian and German Governments in regard to the withdrawal of volunteers from Spain (concessions which ended the deadlock in the Non-Intervention Committee).

"However chastened some of us may be by the international experience of the last few years," he declared, "no one will, I hope, belie the significance of the offer."

After several other members had spoken, the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, replied for the Government.

The non-intervention developments yesterday, he said, had knocked the bottom out of the debate, and many speeches had to be torn up.

Mr. C. R. Attlee (Leader of the Labour Opposition), he continued, had been compelled rapidly to shift his ground. Instead of taunting the Government with truckling to dictators, he had to throw doubts on the good faith of the Italian Government.

The developments in the non-intervention situation, the Prime Minister asserted, fully justified the patience and persistence of Mr. Eden during the long-drawn out negotiations (Ministerial cheers).

Referring to the subject of volunteers, Mr. Chamberlain emphasized that it would not be open to other countries to pour arms and munitions into Spain while the withdrawal was taking place.

Undertaking on Balearics

Turning to the fall of Gijon, the Prime Minister said the British Government had instructed its Ambassador to support, to the fullest, the appeal of the French Government to Gen. Francisco Franco to use prisoners in the most humane manner.

He mentioned that British ships, under the protection of the British Navy, had removed from Gijon 30,000 refugees (cheers).

Turning to the Balearic islands, Mr. Chamberlain said he accepted the repeated and most categorical assurances of the Italian Government, that it had no territorial or strategic designs in Spain, as being given in good faith.

They had relieved Britain of the necessity of considering a situation which, if it had arisen, might have materially changed military conditions in the western Mediterranean and would have been a matter of serious concern to the British Government.

The Prime Minister hoped that the development of non-intervention might be taken as the commencement of a process of removing the danger of the conflict in Spain from spreading to the outside.

Once that question was out of the way, he added, "we might get down to the deeper and most serious cause of European unrest and anxiety."

Mediterranean Piracy

In reviewing events in Spain today, Mr. Eden first referred to the outbreak of attacks on shipping in the Mediterranean in July which, he said, were in effect acts of piracy.

That was a situation which could not be allowed to continue. Against such acts the only possible safeguard was to use overwhelming strength for the protection of trade routes in the Mediterranean.

It was dangerous to prophesy, in the present world conditions, but it was at least true that from the assemblying of the Nyon Conference until to-day, acts of piracy against shipping in the Mediterranean had ceased (cheers).

Referring to the final Anglo-French effort to "refloat the non-intervention committee, which had been virtually waterlogged for two months," Mr. Eden said they had thought it only fair to make plain that if the meeting could not achieve results, they would have to be free to resume liberty of action.

That statement was made not because we had ceased to believe that the policy of non-intervention was still the only safe course for Europe in the Spanish conflict, but because no government could continue to associate itself for an indefinite period with an international agreement that was being constantly violated (cheers).

Eleventh-Hour Reprieve

But at the eleventh hour there came a new and very welcome contribution by the Italian Government.

"I am convinced," the Foreign Secretary declared, "that the people of this country are united and emphatic in not wishing the British Government to take sides in what should be a matter for the Spanish Government."

Mr. Eden emphasized that the British Government's determination was to concentrate on what was possible, by a combination of patience and persistence, and even at the risk of criticism and misrepresentation, to localize the war and watch over British interests.—Reuter.

King's Speech Deplores China War Sufferings

Sympathetic Reference Made to Victimization

HOPES FOR PEACE HELD OF BRUSSELS TALKS

London, Oct. 22.

The distress of His Majesty at the sufferings of non-combatants in the Sino-Japanese conflict was mentioned in the King's speech on the prorogation of Parliament read in the House of Lords this morning by the Lord Chancellor before members of both Houses.

Parliament will reassemble on Tuesday when the King will make a speech in person in the House of Lords.

"I have seen with the greatest concern," His Majesty said, "the development of the hostilities between China and Japan. The sufferings which have been inflicted upon innocent non-combatants by attacks from the air and at sea have caused me particular distress. I trust that the conference of Powers which is shortly to be called together may contribute to bring this deplorable conflict to an end."

The Speech expressed Their Majesties' deep satisfaction at the loyalty and affection manifested on the occasion of the Coronation.

"The significance of this ceremony," the King said, "was emphasized by the presence of the Prime Ministers of my Dominions and the representatives of my Empire in India and every part of my Empire overseas."

"The deliberations of the Imperial Conference, which followed immediately after the Coronation," His Majesty continued, "afforded ample evidence of the value of such meetings for the discussion of matters of common concern, and I earnestly trust that their result may enhance the security as well as the prosperity and happiness of my peoples in all parts of the British Commonwealth of nations."

Reference was also made to the successful outcome of the Montreux Conference for the abolition of capitulations in Egypt and the Nyon Conference, while a note was made of the fact that the London Naval Treaty of 1936 had now been ratified by all signatories and that bilateral naval agreements between Britain and Germany and between Britain and Soviet Russia were concluded.

Regarding the rearmament programme, the Speech said: "The heavy burden of it is, to some extent, lightened by the continued growth in trade and employment and the saving and purchasing power among my people."

The Speech, in conclusion, reviewed various legislative measures passed during the session, including the Physical Training and Recreation Act, to which the King assented "with particular pleasure."—Reuter.

LORDS DISCUSS FAR EASTERN CONFLICT

Peace Objective At Brussels Stressed For Government

London, Oct. 21.

The barbarity of the war in the Far East was denounced by Lord Snell, on behalf of the Labour Party, in a speech in the House of Lords to-day during a debate on international affairs.

Japan, he said, was almost certain to win in the long run, but it would mean economic losses to the world, especially the United States and Great Britain. Economic pressure was an immediate weapon that could be used. There was no hope of the British Government moving in that direction, but the Labour Party and trade unions would bring such pressure to bear upon Japan as they could.

Lord Snell hoped that the Nine-Power Conference would succeed. He suggested that an international commission on the lines of the Lytton Commission might arrange some solution based on the principle of the Open Door.

His speech, followed a statement by Lord Plymouth, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, similar to that made by Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary, in the House of Commons.

Lord Crewe, on behalf of the Liberals, complained that Lord Plymouth had failed to outline any method whereby the moral indignation of the world could be developed and Japan penalized.

Lord Barnby (Conservative) declared a boycott generally rebounded to the disadvantage of those who had suggested it. Britain's main object, he said, was friendship with Japan and China and peaceful development in East Asia.

Lord Halifax, Lord President of the Council and Leader of the House, emphasized that the object was to restore peace in the Far East and said, "we have no intention of putting one party or other in the dock, but intend to proceed in the spirit of Article VII of the Treaty." He earnestly hoped that Japan would be represented, but even if not, he could see great influence exercised by the joint co-operation of the Powers attending.—Reuter.

JAPANESE BOMB BURNS SCORES IN SINZA ROAD

Incendiary Missile Falls in Crowded Street

70 YARDS FROM CREEK

Two Sikh Policemen Among The Injured

Between forty and fifty Chinese, largely refugees, were burned when a Japanese incendiary bomb exploded in crowded Sinza Road, at Myburgh Road, at 4.15 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Many of them, including small children, were not accorded a chance to live last night, so extensive were the burns they suffered. Two Sikh policemen also were injured, one of them seriously. Several rickshaws were burned to a crisp.

Japanese planes were raining incendiary bombs on Chapei in the vicinity of the Soochow Creek when the missile in question struck the pavement on the south side of Sinza Road and exploded. The place hit is fully 70 yards from the nearest point on the Creek.

The explosion, flash and tremendous amount of heat generated struck terror into the entire neighbourhood, which is filled with refugees of the poorest class. The wails of the victims could be heard through the crowded streets, and a wild confusion was caused. From Sinza Police Station, close by, squads of men rushed to the scene, led by Insp. O. B. Perkins. Simultaneously, a call was sent to the Fire Brigade for ambulances.

Many of the victims lay in the street, naked. Not only had their clothes been burnt off, but they had suffered terrible skin burns as well. In most of these cases their faces had been scorched and their hair destroyed. There were at least three small children in this pitiable condition, and many women.

American Protest

Brigadier-General John C. Beaumont, Commanding the 6th Brigade U. S. Marine Corps in Shanghai, is understood to have lodged a protest with Vice-Admiral K. Hasegawa, Commander-in-Chief of the Japanese Third Fleet, over the Japanese bomb which fell in Sinza Road, which is within the American defence sector. It is reported that Admiral Hasegawa has expressed his regrets.

Ambulances and police cars conveyed nearly forty persons to Paulun, Lester and St. Elizabeth's Hospitals. The two Sikh policemen were taken to the Police Hospital in Shanhaikwan Road, where one of them was detained only a short while. The other, S.P.C. 520, remained in a ward last night with serious burns. Some of the victims refused to go to hospital, some walked and some were treated at the scene.

The remains of the incendiary bomb were picked up by the police and given to officials of the Health Department for chemical tests. A strong smell of phosphorus lingered at the corner where the missile struck, for hours afterwards. Hundreds of the curious milled about the scene till long after dark.

NEW DISHES OFFERED AT ANNUAL DINNER

Artists Rifles Treated To Weird Menu

"Come Shot and Shell and cannons' roar, we dine to-night as in years before," was the defiant message sent to the Headquarters of the Artists Rifles, London, by ex-members of the famous regiment in Shanghai on the occasion of their annual dinner held yesterday evening. The dinner was held at the private house of one of the members in Great Western Road. In reply, the London Headquarters also burst into rhyme with the following:—"We wish you luck this festive night, you can't hear shells when you are tight."

The dinner menu well reflected the special circumstances under which the dinner was held this year. "Burnt out soup from Yangtszepoo" was one of the first items, and it was followed by a tasty dish, "looted fish with Point Island dressing." Ex-members of the Artists Rifles found their mouths watering when they contemplated the "Sukiyaki a la Idzumo," and the "shelled peas from Pootung" also drew much favourable comment from the assembled revellers.

The guest of honour for the evening was Major-General A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, who was closely connected with the Artists' Rifles during the Great War.

The dinner tables were decorated with the regimental colours, and the regimental standard was placed above the chair of the president, Mr. R. G. McDonald. After the buffet dinner which took the place of the usual dinner at the Shanghai Club, these present participated in wartime songs in traditional style.

CHINA RELIEF FUND GROWING

Big Donations From Banks: Non-Political Aim

London, Oct. 21.

The non-political nature of his appeal for funds for the relief of distress in China was emphasized by the Lord Mayor in a speech at a luncheon at the Mansion House today. His appeal, which had the support of the Foreign Office, was entirely humanitarian and was neither pro-Chinese nor pro-Japanese. After his radio broadcast last night, he received 1,000 guineas each from the Bank of England and the Corporation of London, and £500 from Barclays Bank.

The Lord Mayor's appeal was reinforced to-day by speeches by Dame Rachel Crowdy, formerly Chief of the Social Questions and Opium Traffic Section of the League of Nations; Mr. William Telling and Dr. Harold Balme.—Reuter.

Shanghai Ship Movement Lull For Week-end

Glenshiel Sailing For Home Ports On Monday

LEESANG DUE FROM THE NORTH TO-DAY

Three coastal sailings are listed for to-day by the Indo-China S. N. Co. and the China Navigation Co., but otherwise the harbour will be quiet as regards merchant shipping. At 8 o'clock this morning, the I.-C. ss. Pingwo, which arrived in port yesterday afternoon, is to sail from the Kinleeyuen Wharf on her return trip to Tungchow, while at noon the same company's ss. Yatshing will leave with passengers and cargo from the Peking Road Jetty, bound for Tsingtao, Chefoo and Tientsin.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon, the C. N. ss. Shengking will sail from the French Bund, bound for Tsingtao, Weihaiwei, Chefoo and Tientsin. At 1 o'clock this afternoon, the I.-C. ss. Leesang is expected to berth at the China Merchants Kinleeyuen Wharf with passengers, cargo and mails from Tientsin, Chefoo, Weihaiwei and Tsingtao. The Leesang will remain in port till noon to-morrow, when she sails from the same wharf for Foochow, Swatow and Hongkong.

Monday will also be quiet, with only two sailings arranged so far, the C.N. ss. Suiyang, from the French Bund at 2 p.m., bound for Swatow and Hongkong, and the Glen Line ss. Glenshiel, bound for London and Continental ports; Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co. are the passenger and loading agents for the Glen boats, and Messrs. Butterfield & Swire the discharging agents.

Tuesday will see a revival of activity in the harbour. Arrivals on that day will include two Indo-China ships, the ss. Fausang, berthing at the Kinleeyuen Wharf from Tientsin, Chefoo, Weihaiwei and Tsingtao, and the ss. Chaksang, which will tie up at the A.P.C. wharf, Gough Island, from Hongkong and Swatow.

Tuesday's Sailings

The China Navigation Co. will have three ships sailing for China ports on Tuesday. At 8 a.m. the ss. Wusueh, which left Tungchow yesterday for Shanghai, is to sail on her return journey for that river port, and four hours later the Taiyuan will get away for Tsingtao, Weihaiwei, Chefoo and Tientsin; according to the latest advices, this ship left Chefoo at noon last Tuesday, bound for Shanghai via Tsingtao. Finally, at 2 p.m., the ss. Kwangtung will be sailing on her return trip to Amoy and Hongkong. All these sailings, it should be noted, will be from the French Bund.

The C. N. ss. Nanchang will sail from the French Bund at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, bound for Foochow and Hongkong, being preceded by two hours by the I.-C. ss. Fausang, from the Peking Road jetty, on her way south to Swatow and Hongkong. The I.-C. ss. Fooshing is expected to arrive in port on Wednesday from Tientsin, Chefoo and Tsingtao, but details of the time of her arrival and berth are not yet available.

On Thursday, the I.-C. ss. Chaksang will sail at noon from the Peking Road jetty for Tsingtao, Chefoo and Tientsin, while at 10.00 a.m. on Friday and Saturday respectively, the C.N. steamers Kiungchow and Shuntien will be sailing, the former for Swatow, Hongkong and Haiphong, and the latter for Tientsin, Weihaiwei, Chefoo and Tientsin; both sailings will be from the French Bund.

The China Navigation Co. further advises that the Sinkiang leaves Hongkong (from Hongay) for Shanghai on Monday; the Tsinan is expected to leave that port on Tuesday for Amoy and Shanghai; the Kingyuan the following day for this port via Swatow; and that the Luchow will leave Chefoo to-day for Weihaiwei, Tsingtao, Shanghai and Ningpo.

Bound for Europe

With regard to sailings for Europe, the Norddeutscher Lloyd have postponed the departure of the ss. Donau by one day, and she will now be sailing on November 2 for Continental ports from the Kwang Hwa installation, Gough Island. The Hamburg-Amerika Linie mv. Rheinland will be sailing from Hongkong on Friday next for Marseilles, Rotterdam and Hamburg, while on Wednesday next the Swedish East Asiatic mv. Nanking will sail from the Colony for Tripoli, Algiers, Oran, Antwerp, Rotterdam, Hamburg, Oslo and Gothenburg.

According to advices received locally by the Lloyd Triestino, the mv. Himalaya left Karachi on October 14, and she should therefore arrive in Shanghai on or about November 20. The ss. Conte Biancamano, which will be sailing for Italy from Shanghai on November 17, left Genoa on Wednesday last, and should arrive in port on or about November 13.

P.W.D. COOLIES STILL CAUSE CONCERN

Unrest continues among P.W.D. coolies in the Sinza district, some of whom demonstrated on Thursday because of their scale of pay. Five hundred coolies who had gathered at the Markham Road depot were cleared by the Police on Thursday, and yesterday the authorities still, kept a close watch on the situation. There were no untoward happenings, however.

Britain Must Seek Early End to Carnage in China

Mr. Attlee said he believed Japan only undertook this adventure because the attitude of this and other governments always allowed an aggressor to get away with it.

He believed that Japan's financial and economic position was extremely weak, and that if one tithe of the resolution shown about British shipping in the Mediterranean was shown in the Far East, the invasion of China could be stopped.

Liberal Leader's View

Sir Archibald Sinclair, on behalf of the Liberal Party, said there should have been more adequate response to President Roosevelt's great speech, which he described as the most hopeful utterance from America since the war.

He expressed the opinion that if, in the last resort, Japan's chief customers among nations refused her imports, it would be impossible for Japan to finance the war.

He recognized that there were vulnerable places like Hongkong, which would not care to take part in such a policy.

Sir Archibald Sinclair summed up his policy as follows:

1.—To appeal to mediation and to give an assurance not only to China but to Japan that we realized she had legitimate grievances against this and other nations, and that those grievances would be considered—trade discrimination and other grievances—with the intention of remedying them.

2.—If that failed, economic pressure must be prepared, with sufficient force behind it to make it effective if it were challenged.

The Government's Problem

"In two parts of the world far removed from each other, southwestern Europe and the Far East, wars were raging," declared Mr. Eden at the outset of his speech.

Whatever the military outcome of the events in the Far East, he said, it must inevitably result in the impoverishment of both nations engaged in the conflict.

Great Britain regretted these events more deeply not only because of her great commercial interests in the Far East but also because, just previously to the outbreak of the conflict, "we were actually having consultations with the Japanese Government which might have led to a programme of international cooperation with the Chinese Government, naturally for the improvement of relations and the development of trade.

"These conversations were interrupted immediately the conflict broke out, and a resumption is clearly impossible in the present circumstances."

British Peace Efforts

The Foreign Secretary proceeded to give a brief account of the efforts made to secure a settlement.

In all the British efforts, the Government, he said, kept in the closest touch with the Governments of other countries particularly concerned, especially the United States.

The views of these governments, and the action Britain had taken either with the Japanese Government or the Chinese government, or both, had been substantially of a similar character.

Mr. Eden recalled the League discussions on the Far East and the initiation of the Nine-Power Conference meeting at Brussels on October 30, and expressed the hope that he would shortly be able to announce the names of the British delegates.

At Geneva, he continued, certain pronouncements were made both about the origin of the conflict and also about the air bombing which had occurred.

Geneva Findings Endorsed

"I shall add nothing more (on the reports drawn up at Geneva in regard to the origin of the conflict and the air bombing) except to say that our own representative there had made it abundantly clear that we fully endorsed every word in those reports and everything they say."

Mr. Eden recalled the recommendation of the sub-committee on the initiation of the Nine-Power Conference, and commented that it would seem from it that the mandate was a definite one.

"Naturally," he said, "we are consulting with other governments interested, and will continue to do so until the moment of the Conference. I have received a message saying that M. Yvon Delbos (the French Foreign Minister) will himself attend the Conference. The Italian Government will send a delegation, while the United States will be represented by Mr. Norman Davis.

"To talk now about what will be included and excluded from the Brussels Conference in advance will be most unwise. We have a definite agenda given to us by the League, and the proper procedure to follow is, in consultation with other signatories of the Treaty, who will all be present, to do the utmost lying in our power to discharge its mandate.

"If the conference fails, then we shall enter into a new situation, which we shall have to contemplate."

ST. ANDREW'S BALL NOT TO BE HELD

Ewo Handicap To Take Place As Usual

SCOTTISH SOCIETY'S ANNUAL MEETING

There will be no St. Andrew's Ball this year. This was unanimously decided upon by members of the St. Andrew's Society at their annual meeting held yesterday at he Palace Hotel. Mr. W. B. O. Middleton, who took the chair in place of Dr. A. C. Bryson, at present away on holiday, said that a ball might be thought unsuitable at a time of crisis as the present. The Ewo Handicap will, however, be held as usual on November 30. In order to assist the Society's funds, it was decided at yesterday's meeting to raise a subscription from members in connection with St. Andrew's Day. At first, it was suggested by the acting president that a limit should be put on the subscription, but it was later decided to place no maximum on the amount to be subscribed by each member.

The annual report of the Society, previously circulated to members, stated that the accounts showed a debit balance of $1,069.21 owing to the continued heavy charitable disbursements. Collections made by the hon. treasurer on account of subscriptions during the year amounted to $2,590 as compared with $2,825 during the previous year. The committee wished to thank the British Chamber of Commerce for their generous donations amounting to $3,000 made to the Society's charity fund.

Members' Roll

The roll of members now stood at 516, including 35 life members, as against 546 for the previous year. The committee expressed deep regret at the loss sustained by the Society on the deaths of Messrs. A. D. Bell and G. Matheson.

The annual competition which took place on October 17, 1936, was won by John Craig Cameron, (boys), and Grace Scott Macmillan, (girls). Grants made during the year amounted to $9,207.41 as compared with $9,173.97 for the previous year. Grants for education amounted to $247.40 as compared with $390.60 for the previous year.

Mr. H. E. D. Adams, hon. secretary, resigned during the year, and Mr. C. B. Blaikie was appointed to the office in his stead. On Mr. Blaikie's departure on home leave, Mr. R. Fyfe was co-opted and appointed acting hon. secretary.

St. Andrew's Day was again observed by a ball in the Cercle Sportif Francaise, which was well attended by members and guests. On St. Andrew's Day the staff of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co., Ltd., again held the Ewo Handicap by courtesy of the Stewards of the Shanghai Race Club. The committee wished to record their thanks to Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co., and the hon. Stewards of the meeting for the sum of $1,967.51 donated by them to the charity funds of the society.

New Officers

The following officers were elected at the meeting to serve for the ensuing year:—president, Mr. W. B. O. Middleton; vice-president, Mr. R. D. Murray; committee, Messrs. C. B. Blaikie, Dr. T. M. Burton, H. R. Cleland, R. M. Currie, T. Hutchison, J. Keswick, W. Lyle, John McNeill, C. B. Ogilvie, A. Pollock, G. O. W. Stewart, A. Y. Tait, J. D. Watt, T. W. R. Wilson, and W. M. Marshall. To represent the society on the committee of the British Residents Association, Brig.-Gen. E. B. Macnaghten.

An address expressing appreciation of his work for the society is to be sent to Mr. C. M. Bain, who is to present in South Africa. It was announced aat the meeting that a cable had been sent to the Foreign Office by Mr. Herbert Phillips, H.M. Consul-General in Shanghai, asking that a certain sum should be allocated to Societies from funds sent out from home for the relief of distressed Britons in China.

FROM DAY TO DAY

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Parsons have returned to Shanghai from Japan where they have spent the last three months on holiday.

A copy of the Motor Road map of North China, which combines with practical advice for trips and motor car repairs by Hans Goldau, M.E., has been received.

Dock workers in Marseilles to-day announced through their syndicate that they would refuse to load cargo on the Japanese ship Kashima Maru which was to arrive yesterday.

Over 6,000 fishermen are now out of work in Amoy harbour as a result of the acts committed by Japanese warships against fishing vessels off the coasts, says a dispatch to the "China Times."

A copy of Technical publications of the International Tin Research and Development Council for August, has been received. The issue embodies an article on "Fusible Alloys containing tin" by E. J. Daniels, M.Sc.

The Nanking Theatre announces an alteration in their morning matinee programmes—to-day at 10.30 a.m., "The 13th Chair" will be presented and to-morrow at the same hour, owing to numerous requests, the "Moonlight Sonata."

Compiled by Dr. C. L. Hsia, the Council of International Affairs at Nanking has issued a bulletin of "Foreign Press opinions on Sino-Japanese Hostilities in Shanghai, 1937." The pamphlet comprises editorial comments from this journal and the "Shanghai Evening Post" during August and September.

The preacher at the morning service in the Cathedral to-morrow will be the Rev. Michael Bruce, who will speak on 'The Y.M.C.A. in the present Emergency.' Mr. Bruce will be returning to England shortly and this will probably be the last time he will preach in the Cathedral.

Miss Ann Hsiu Wang, youngest daughter of the Chinese Ambassador, Dr. C. T. Wang, entered George Washington University to continue her studies in psychology. Miss Wang started her college studies in Peiping but was interrupted when Sino-Japanese hostilities broke out there.

Mr. Meng Shih-yi, Director of the Revenue Bureau in East Szechuen, who was tried and convicted by the Headquarters of the Generalissimo in Chungking on charges of corruption and embezzlement of public funds, was executed on October 21, states a special dispatch to the "Shun Pao."

The Kiangsu Provincial Government has decided to establish granaries for the purpose of storing up huge quantities of grains to meet the demands of the emergency period, states a dispatch to the "China Times." The provincial administration is now making a census of the total population in all its districts.

Washington, D.C., shoppers were startled on Wednesday to find that a Pennsylvania Avenue Japanese gift shop had over night become the Chinese Bazaar. For thirty years the Japanese shop has been a fixture on the capitol city. Its owners, Macy Cohen and David Goldberg, changed the sign over their front door after failing to sell a single Japanese tea set in a special sale.

In compliance with a request by local public health authorities, the International College in Ferguson Road has decided to loan its spacious premises for the opening of a base hospital, states a report to the "Hwa Mei Pao." It is understood that with the hostilities in and around Shanghai gathering momentum every day, the accommodation for wounded soldiers in various war hospitals here has been taxed to the limit.

BOMB STARTS FIRE IN BOUNDARY RD.

Ten Houses Destroyed Or Badly Damaged

CHINESE PLANES START YANGTSZEPOO BLAZES

Ten Chinese houses in Boundary Road, near Cunningham Road, were destroyed or seriously damaged yesterday forenoon by a fire which is believed to have been started by a hot fragment of a Japanese aerial bomb.

The houses, all of which were of the Chinese shop type, were unoccupied when the flames started, and no-one was injured. The Shanghai Fire Brigade was summoned at 11.42 o'clock, when firemen turned out from Central Station. They worked from Elgin Road and Cunningham Road, dangerously near to the North Station, while Japanese planes kept on bombing the vicinity. They were fortunate in not being wounded by bomb or shell fragments.

As a result of the evening air-raids on Thursday, disastrous fires started at the Ye-Tsoong Rubber Factory and at two godowns belonging to the Wei Tung Cotton Mill, Lay Road, Yangtszepoo. The flames were extinguished by the Shanghai Fire Brigade, turning out an engine from Yangtszepoo Station. Several Chinese houses near the rubber factory also were damaged by fire.

Five visits from Chinese aircraft were reported during Thursday night and the early part of yesterday morning at 10.22-10.31 p.m., 11.29-11.36 p.m., 12.56-1.07 a.m., 1.39-1.46 a.m. and 2.40-2.47 a.m. Japanese anti-aircraft guns fired briskly at the raiding planes.

A shell explosion was reported from No. 21/521 Range Road, injuring two persons, while shrapnel fell in West Hongkew Station compound in the 5.30 a.m. shelling.

Wounded in Hongkew

One Japanese civilian was killed and six others wounded by Chinese mountain-gun and trench mortar shells exploding in Hongkew on Thursday night, a spokesman for the Japanese embassy revealed yesterday morning on the basis of a report prepared by the Japanese Consular Police.

The Chinese shelling, the spokesman alleged, was "erratic and indiscriminate," missiles falling over a wide area including Haining, Chapoo and Quinsan roads.

The British-owned Pearce Apartment building, at the intersection of Chapoo and Boone Roads, was damaged, the spokesman said.

Chinese batteries in Pootung opened up on Yangtszepoo at 9.30 o'clock on Thursday night, but their shells did little damage as they fell mostly on ruins and in the Whangpoo river, according to the spokesman.

FIRE DAMAGES HOUSES IN YINSHAN ROAD

A big fire, the origin of which is uncertain, broke out in Yinshan Road shortly after 9 a.m. yesterday, causing considerable damage to houses in the vicinity. One fire engine, sent to the scene of the outbreak from Yangtszepoo Station, spent over an hour fighting the flames before they were finally subdued. House Number One, Yinshan Road, was very badly damaged, while Number Three was completely gutted.

English Soccer 1st Div. Leaders Meet To-day

CHELSEA MAY OUST BRENTFORD

Leeds And Wolverhampton In Another Vital Game

THE BRITISH FOOTBALL FORM GAUGE

By "Scrutator"

Will there be another change at the top of the table this week-end? The leaders Brentford meet Chelsea at Stamford Bridge. The Pensioners have only lost one home point to date, whilst Brentford have lost two away games. They have not won at Stamford bridge in the past two seasons, and I take the Pensioners to win this game.

The meeting of Leeds and Wolverhampton is another game likely to affect the positions in the table. The Yorkshiremen are undefeated at home, amongst their victims being Chelsea. The Wolves have lost two away games including one against the Arsenal. The Wolves have not found Elland Road a happy hunting ground in past seasons, and I feel that they will go down to defeat in this game.

Stoke, Arsenal Even

Stoke and Arsenal appear to be equally balanced and this is a difficult one to forecast. Last season it ended in a draw. This season the Gunners have not been so impressive away, and Stoke are undefeated at home, Charlton losing to them. I think the homesters will pull through.

Charlton should take two points from Bolton. I suggest the following home winners:—Birmingham, Middlesbrough, P.N.E., Grimsby and West Brom. Albion.

Coventry and home should continue undefeated. I think Burnley will beat Chesterfield, and take Sheffield United to defeat Fulham. Bury ought to win over Swansea, and Manchester U. should just about get the verdict over the Wednesday. Barnsley might have to be content with one point from Southampton, a result which is likely in the London Derby between Luton and West Ham. Newcastle United look booked for the Third Division, and as Bradford are bent on promotion, they may finish ahead of the United. Aston Villa will probably take two points from the Forest.

SUPT. T. MCKENNA'S FAREWELL DINNER

Presentation Made To Leader In Local Sport Field

GOLD WRIST WATCH GIFT OF POLICE COMRADES

Supt. T. McKenna, one of the most popular figures in Shanghai police and sporting circles, was the guest of honour at a dinner and presentation in the Shanghai Police Club yesterday evening given jointly by the Police Recreation Club and the Shanghai Amateur Athletic Club. "Tom McKenna is retiring after thirty years and eight months in the S.M.P., and over a hundred friends in the Force attended last night's function and saw Maj. K. M. Bourne, Deputy Commissioner, present a handsome gold wrist-watch to him, on behalf of the gathering, in token of the esteem in which he has been held here for more than a generation. Having joined the Police on March 4, 1907, Mr. McKenna rose to the rank of superintendent on December 1, 1930, and has held many important positions, amongst others, in the old Mixed Court and the Traffic Office, which he now heads. His leadership in local amateur athletics is well known.

In replying to the speech of presentation, Supt. McKenna offered a tribute to the courage and devotion to duty of the Police during the emergency period and to the leadership of Maj. Bourne, and then went on to speak on amateur athletics. He said:—

Sporting Spirit a Help

"It seems to me that the sporting spirit engendered by the active athleticism so worthily represented here to-night has played no small part in helping the Police in performing their manifold duties, and the very natural regret I feel in leaving so many of my friends in Shanghai, both amongst the Police and civilian sportsmen, is tempered by the knowledge that there are many younger men than myself better equipped than I am not only to perform but also to promote the pursuit of genuine and healthy amateur athletics.

"It was my privilege 20 years ago, in 1917, arising out of my first letter to the sports editor of the 'China Press', to be the founder of the Shanghai Amateur Athletic Club whose large membership and friends, jointly with my friends of the Police Recreation Club, are honouring me with this evening's entertainment.

"As you all know, our Club has thriven and grown with the passage of the years, and it is a happiness to me to leave it with the sure knowledge that its affairs are in young and vigorous hands that I feel are more capable than mine. These remarks apply equally to the Police Recreation Club."

Early in Athletics

Tom McKenna's connection with amateur athletics dates from his school days when he showed promise first as a middle-distance runner and later at the "hill and dale" sport. On leaving school he joined that famous Midland club, the Wolverhampton Athletic, in whose cross-country teams he soon developed into a first-rate runner with the right temperament for the game. Also it was here, in his first Club, that his happy knack of leadership, which is known so well in Shanghai, was first recognized and he was made Captain of the "Wolves" first team.

With so splendid a record of successes behind him, it is not surprising that, on his arrival in Shanghai many years ago, Tom McKenna very soon became associated with local athletic events and was not long in establishing a number of Shanghai and China records, while his happy smile and witty tongue quickly earned for him a host of friends.

He has been president of the Shanghai Athletic Club, which he founded in 1917, for a great many years and holds the distinction of being the promoter in 1929 of the first marathon race to be held in China. On more than one occasion he has acted as referee of the International Track and Field Meet, while his interest and untiring work on behalf of the International Walking Match resulted in his being elected president of that competition in 1931. He was recently made vice-president of the newly-founded International Amateur Athletic Association.

Mr. Tom Beesley, on behalf of the Shanghai Athletic Club, and other speakers tributed Supt. McKenna's many services to sport here.

Negotiations For Farr v. Harvey Fight

London, Oct. 22.

Negotiations were commenced to-day for a fight between the British heavyweights, Tommy Farr, the reigning British and Empire champion, and Len Harvey, former holder of the title.

The Welshman is demanding £10,000.

Meanwhile, it is understood that Walter Neusel's manager is prepared to consider a return match between the German boxer and the New Zealander, Maurice Strickland, who was narrowly defeated the other day.—Reuter.

FUSILIER FIGHTING PARKS TO-DAY

Big Mixed Bill at Canidrome Starts at 5.30

Marking the first occasion a member of the additional British forces sent here to cope with the present emergency is appearing in the Shanghai ring, Harry Owens, crack featherweight of the Royal Welch Fusiliers, is featured in the main bout of the Auditorium's boxing revival programme at the Canidrome Gardens at 5.30 p.m. to-day.

Jackie Parks, the clean-cut youngster who opposes him in the eight-round main event, is far from a novice, however. Jackie started his ring career in Shanghai (at the Auditorium, in fact) seven years ago and in addition to never being beaten as a featherweight locally, toured North China and Korea two years ago to return with the featherweight championship of his native land. Larry "Jinx" Baker, 4th Marines welter ace, ends an absence of six months from the squared circle to-day to meet Anatole Bavet, clever Russian middleweight, in the semi-final while the city's outstanding lightweights, "Chuck" Haines of the 4th Marines and Joe Clara of Manila, are to clash in the special event.

Monier's Farewell

Husky little Robert Monier, bantam who has ruled the roost at the French Army stable for some time, makes his adieux to Shanghai to-day, for his six-round fight with "Demon" Hoo, stout-hearted Chinese bantam, will be his last in Shanghai as he leaves next on transfer to Tientsin.

Tommy Moore, 4th Marines' junior welterweight, is another "new face" on to-day's fight bill.

HARDCOURT TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

C.S.F. Silver Jubilee Title Play Begins To-day

More than thirty tennis matches will feature the first round's programme in the annual open hard-court championships at Cercle Sportif Francais. Sixteen tussles have been slated on to-day's opening card while more games will be decided to-morrow.

Of the five titles at stake, the men's series are considered to be most significant and they draw the greatest attention each year. Last season, in the absence of local "top-notch" players such as Lewis Carson, Gordon Lum, V. T. Wong and W.A.H. "Stick" Duff, premier honours were fought between Chinese exponents who dominated in the finals of both the singles and doubles.

Ronald Ma, then a medical student in St. John's University, sprang a big surprise in the 1936 tournament in winning the singles championship. He went through the series without a hitch in eliminating Humberto Collaco, the favourite, by lop-sided scores of 6-1, 6-2 and then disposing of young Canavarro, son of the veteran Raul, in the semi-finals with equal ease at 6-1, 6-0. In the final, against P. C. Li of Nanking, Ma again emerged triumphant with scores of 6-1, 8-6, 6-2 which made him a champion without the loss of a single set through the tournament.

Carson Back This Year

Now that Carson is back in the fold, the chance of anybody's springing a surprise is very remote. Ma, Collaco, and maybe P. C. Tong of the University of Shanghai, who is making his debut to-day against Carson seem to be the only ones capable of putting up strong opposition.

The winners in the 1936 series were as follow:—

Men's singles: Ronald Ma.
Men's doubles: Ronald Ma and V. Y. Djou.
Women's singles: Mrs. B. Krenov.
Women's Doubles: Mrs. Reader Harris and Miss Massey.
Mixed Doubles: Mrs. J. E. Moir and W. A. H. Duff.

BRIGHT PROGRAMME FOR GYMKHANA

More Novelties Arranged For This Afternoon

By The Squire

There will be a gymkhana this afternoon at the Columbia Riding School, commencing at three o'clock with an excellent programme of five events. Post entries are being accepted in all events except the first—individual jumping,—for which eliminating trials were held on Thursday evening, leaving only those riders who made few faults to compete in the final. The finalists are:—Sammy Yuan on Spriglet, F. K. Beattie on Ben, Clitheroe, on Ballyhale, Jimmy Yuan, on Star of Argyll, C. G. Jack, on White Major, C. H. Sprague on Cremor, R. N. Harris on either Clicky or Jupiter, J. R. St. C. Ford on either Lucknow or Bugle Ann, Miss Arnold on Good Boy, Capt. Hogaboom on I-Ping, Capt. Davidson Houston on Military Plane, Major Rodger on Big Bill, Mrs. Sprague on Chrysler and Mrs. Andrews on Ironside.

The usual jumping course has been slightly altered by the inclusion of a number of poles set a few feet apart and so low that a clever pony could step over them, reminding one very much of the performance of the horses in Hagenback's Circus when it visited Shanghai some years ago.

The other events this afternoon are (2) Saddling and Bridling competition, (3) Cigarette and umbrella race, (4) Polo ball race and (5) bareback wrestling match.

JOCKEYS' PRESENTATION TO STEVE DONOGHUE

London, Oct. 21.

The famous jockey, Steve Donoghue, was to-day presented with a silver trophy, engraved with the signatures of his fellow jockeys, as a "token of respect and admiration" on the occasion of his retirement.

Gordon Richards, the champion jockey, made the presentation, which took place at a dinner.—Reuter.

London Silver was both 1/8 down ready and forward, being 19 1/8 for spot and 19 7/8 forward. New York was unchanged at 44 3/4 and Bombay was one anna down at 50.12. It is reported India were small sellers. Market quietly steady. After the official fixing the market was very idle and featureless.

The Local Exchange Market opened with Sellers to Merchants for ready delivery at 1/2 1/4 Stg. 29 7/8 U.S.$ and 102 for Yen. During the course of the day, occasional sellers came out for inter-bank business at 1/2 3/8 but Banks generally were good buyers at the rate. The forward market was also very steady with good sellers for Novr. at 1/2 5/8 Stg. and 29 1/4 U.S.$. However, there was not a great deal of activity in the market and rates at the close remained without change.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

Thursday's Closing Quotations

New York, Oct. 22.

Stock prices in Wall Street to-day closed very firm with gains of about 3 points predominating, while a handful of issues declined about 2 points. The market briskly advanced early in the session on more favourable European political news and the strength of foreign markets, but turned irregular as the pace surged upward, tending to create caution. The ticker for the first time this week was easily able to cope with the volume of transactions. There was wide spread profit-taking, but prices, however, again showed a stiffening tendency in late dealings. The strength of rails was due to expectations of an early decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission for higher freight rates. The turn-over to-day amounted to 3,640,000 shares.

LONDON SILVER MARKET

London, Oct. 21.

Messrs. Mocatta and Goldsmid, in their weekly bullion letter, write:—Practically the only demand during the past week has been from bears covering maturing commitments, but, in the absence of selling pressure, the price was steadily maintained for the greater part of the week.

Indian prices have been declining, and a slightly lower level seems possible.

Stocks of silver in London at the end of the week were placed at 6,000,000 ounces.—Reuter.

U.S. COMMODITIES

Thursday's Closing Quotations

New York, Oct. 22.

Trading in the cotton market was early very inactive and in a deadlocked position, with a general absence of hedge-selling and buyers holding-off awaiting developments. Later, prices advanced on Liverpool cables and trade and foreign buying on the early firmness of the stock market and the more favourable foreign political situation, but then reacted on local and commission house liquidation. Finally, the market closed steady, with quotations ruling from unchanged to 2 points up.

After early steadiness, the rubber market eased, despite the relaxation of Far Eastern pressure, on dealer selling which found buyers more cautious due to an inventory shut-down by a large tyre manufacturer. Towards the close, the market steadied on shorts covering. At the last call-over prices ranged from 6 points down to 3 points up.

After ruling quiet, wheat prices in Chicago eased under the leadership of professionals selling, a less active European demand, favourable conditions in the Southern Hemisphere and disappointing cables combined with the reactionary trend of securities. At the final bell, prices ranged from unchanged to 3/4 of a cent down.

The sugar market closed dull but steady, with prices early advancing on a little producer buying and scattered covering on steady London advices. Towards the close the market partially reacted on liquidation. At the close quotations were unchanged from yesterday.

With Japanese cables mixed and the movement of the stock market the dominating influence, the silk market, after steadiness, eased on nervous speculative and local selling. Finally, prices advanced on shorts covering. Closing quotations were from unchanged to 1 cent up.

BRITISH COMMODITIES

Thursday's Closing Quotations

London, Oct. 22.

The commodity markets experienced their share of excited trading, following more favourable developments in the Spanish situation, together with the sustained rally in Wall Street.

Rubber, wheat and base metals all met a larger turn-over than of late, in which increased interest was especially apparent. Tin ruled outstandingly strong, soaring to £222, compared with £207 1/2 at yesterday's close.

REICHSMARK QUOTATIONS

Berlin, Oct. 21.

The following were to-day's Reichsmark quotations: New York 40.17, Paris 1186.—, Amsterdam 72.645, London 12.335.

Paris quoted sterling at 146.34 to 146.40 and the U.S. dollar at 29.525 to 29.555.—Trans-Ocean.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE

Thursday's Closing Quotations

London, Oct. 22.

Firm and active conditions prevailed on the Stock Exchange throughout the day, though some of the biggest gains were out of proportion to actual demand. Profit-taking, though considerable, was usually well absorbed. The undertone was very satisfactory, and the settlement passed off without difficulty.—Reuter.

PARIS BOURSE

Paris, Oct. 22.

Wide gains were witnessed in practically all issues on the Paris Bourse yesterday, following the spectacular recovery in Wall Street and the unexpected agreement with London.

The market was very active at the opening, gradually calming down towards the close. To-day's rise allowed most shares to regain their previous losses.—Havas.

LOANS BY MEMBER BANKS TO BROKERS

New York, Oct. 21.

Loans on security to brokers in New York by the reporting member banks of the Federal Reserve System, for the week ended October 20, totalled $929,000,000, a decrease of $72,000,000 from the corresponding week of last year.

Loans to brokers during the previous week totalled $968,000,000, or $39,000,000 higher than the amount recorded for the period under review.—Reuter.

BANK OF JAPAN GOLD RESERVES

Osaka, Oct. 22.

The gold reserves of the Bank of Japan yesterday totalled 801,001,000 Yen, compared with 801,001,000 Yen on Thursday last week and 538,903,000 Yen on October 22 last year.

This shows no change from last week but an increase of 262,098,000 Yen from last year.—Reuter.

BANK OF FRANCE RETURNS

Paris, Oct. 21.

Gold reserves totalling 55,805,000,000 francs were shown in the returns issued to-day by the Bank of France for the week ended October 13, showing no change from the previous week.

The total note circulation was given as 90,625,000,000 francs, a decrease of 366,000,000 francs compared with last week.—Reuter.

"Deficiency of information in Japanese English-language newspapers is completed very successfully by an English newspaper in Kobe The Japan Chronicle . . on its pages can often be found criticisms of the political and economic actions of the Japanese Government and various other information which gives the opportunity to observe and to analyse the Japanese economic situation. In addition to the usual material obtainable from all the Japanese English-language newspapers, The Japan Chronicle gives a very detailed and comprehensive review of the foreign trade of Japan. It regularly prints statistics pertaining to Japanese exports and the state of the home market."—Extracts from U.S.S.R. Chamber of Commerce Journal.
